COVER:

Mammoet, a specialist in heavy lifting and transport with international headquarters in The Netherlands and USA operations in Texas, was contracted to transport an 879,635-pound power generator stator from Charleston, South Carolina to the Duke Energy Power Plant in Cliffside, North Carolina. The gross weight of cargo and equipment was permitted by South Carolina Department of Transportation at 2,055,912 pounds and is the heaviest load to ever be permitted for over-the-road transport in the state.
